Fund construction begins with the specific equity and fixed income target allocations, which determine each fund’s risk profile (from Conservative to Aggressive). The equity allocation for each fund covers the spectrum of market capitalization and investment styles for both domestic and international stocks, while the fixed income portion covers the investment grade and credit sensitive areas of the bond universe.

The team analyzes individual stock holdings and identifies gaps in target allocations as well as concentrations in specific sectors and individual stocks. While there is no guarantee against losses, this level of diversification can help protect you from the ups and downs of the market over time by reducing the impact of poor performance in a single asset class.

Blended benchmarks

Each fund has a blended benchmark comprised of various indexes, which can be a helpful comparative reference. Portfolio managers strive to meet or exceed the performance of the benchmark indexes over time. Short-term differences between fund performance and index performance are common.

The underlying fund allocation for each fund begins with thousands of investment strategies across equities, fixed income and alternatives. When selecting from this universe of options, the Columbia Threadneedle team considers both qualitative and quantitative factors such as historical performance, risk controls, investment style, interviews with portfolio managers and the extensive research provided by Mercer Investment Consulting.

With continuous oversight, the portfolio managers can take immediate action in response to changing market conditions. This may include making allocation adjustments among asset classes and sub-classes and implementing rapid changes to the underlying funds and fund managers.

This rigorous process offers you access to many well-known and specialized investment managers, diversified across a broad array of underlying equity and fixed income funds.

Columbia Threadneedle Investments (Columbia Threadneedle) is the global brand name of the Columbia and Threadneedle group of companies. BLACKROCK is a registered trademark of BlackRock, Inc., or its subsidiaries in the United States and elsewhere. All other trademarks are those of their respective owners.
When determining how to best combine the underlying funds, the Columbia Threadneedle team uses in-depth securities analysis – a sophisticated technique used to precisely measure the underlying holdings of the funds. This enables the team to respond to market risks or opportunities through allocation adjustments.

This ongoing technique involves three key steps:

1. Analyze securities
   Managers examine the underlying holdings in each fund at their security-specific level. This level of analysis results in a more precise assessment of how well the underlying funds complement each other.

2. Aggregate securities
   Combining individual securities into an aggregate view allows the Columbia Threadneedle team to measure style and risk exposure at the underlying fund level. This allows the managers to construct very diversified portfolios without unintended concentrations in style, sectors or securities.

3. Derive fund weightings
   With this level of detailed holdings data and analysis, the team engineers the underlying fund weights to achieve each fund’s asset allocation targets.

Day-to-day investment discretion
Each Portfolio Navigator fund has asset class ranges for equities, bonds, cash/cash equivalents and alternatives. To drive investment performance, the portfolio managers also have latitude to make allocation adjustments in accordance with their investment views and longer-term strategic outlook.
It all begins with a RiverSource variable annuity

A variable annuity is a long-term investment designed to help you through each stage of your retirement — from growing your money to providing income, to passing on wealth to heirs. Your annuity contract value will fluctuate with investment performance and the annuity may gain or lose value. Expenses include a Mortality & Expense (M&E) fee, subaccount fees and optional rider fees, and may also include surrender charges and a contract charge. Variable annuities can offer you these important features:

Tax advantages

A RiverSource variable annuity can help you control and manage your taxes through the power of tax deferral.

Unlike traditional “taxed-as-you-go” investments, with an annuity you pay taxes on any earnings once they are withdrawn.

Keep in mind, when you use an annuity to fund a retirement plan that is already tax-deferred, your annuity will not provide any necessary or additional tax deferral for that retirement plan. Any withdrawals made before age 59½ may be subject to a 10% IRS penalty.

Income options to suit your needs

A RiverSource variable annuity offers you a variety of flexible income options. Depending on your needs, you can:

- Withdraw systematically
- Withdraw a lump sum
- Create a guaranteed income stream

The guarantees offered by RiverSource annuities are backed by the strength and soundness of RiverSource Life Insurance Company and RiverSource Life Insurance Co. of New York and are subject to their claims-paying ability. These guarantees do not apply to the investments in the annuity, which will vary with market conditions.

Protection for your beneficiaries

A RiverSource variable annuity offers several ways to help you protect your investment for your heirs.

The standard death benefit (available at no additional charge if you are age 79 or younger when you purchase your annuity) can help you protect and pass on the wealth you’ve accumulated — no matter how much the markets may have fluctuated.

And, optional death benefits available for an additional fee can further maximize the wealth you leave behind.
The Portfolio Navigator funds seek to drive the performance of your RiverSource variable annuity and provide:

- A sophisticated portfolio construction process
- Expertly selected, well-known and specialized fund managers
- Fine-tuned, broadly diversified investments

About Portfolio Navigator funds
In general, equity securities tend to have greater price volatility than debt securities. The market value of securities may fall, fail to rise, or fluctuate, sometimes rapidly and unpredictably. There are risks associated with fixed income investments, including credit risk, interest rate risk, and prepayment and extension risk. In general, bond prices rise when interest rates fall and vice versa. This effect is more pronounced for longer-term securities. Investments in foreign securities involve certain risks not associated with investments in U.S. companies, due to political, regulatory, economic, social and other conditions or events occurring in the country, as well as fluctuations in currency and the risks associated with less developed custody and settlement practices. See each fund’s prospectus for specific risks associated with the fund.
